Direction (Q. No. 1-5) : Read the following passage carefully and answer the question given below.

Modern zoos are a great improvement on the zoos of former days. In these modern zoos the animals are given as much space as possible in which to move about. In the old-fashioned type of zoo, the animals were kept in cages in large house. They did not get enough exercise to keep healthy and some animal died after a short time in captivity. In the modern zoo, however an attempt is made to provide the animals with natural surroundings. They are kept out doors instead of in house and have much more space than before. A large ground is chosen and is surrounded by a high iron railing. Inside this iron railing a deep ditch is dug. This ditch is too wide for the animal to jump across ; so they can not ever get to the railing. Different animals that live happily together in freedom, are something put together into these large open places. When a mother animal gives birth to her young, she is usually removed to another place where she and her babies are specially cared for.

These baby animals are very popular with visitors, especially children. A few years ago a baby polar bear born in captivity, so it become very popular indeed. Crowds went to the zoo to see it. Many pictures were taken of it and a special book was written about it.
