| Q.2(A) | Read the following passage and answer the questions. | 10M |
| (A1) | Correct the following sentences based On the extract: | 2m |
| i. | Many learned people came to the king's court and gave the same answer to the king's questions. | |
| ii. | Some people were of the opinion that one should let oneself be absorbed in idle pastimes. | |

Once a certain king had an idea. If he always knew the right time to begin everything, if he knew who were the right people to listen to and who to avoid the most important thing to do, he would never fail in anything that he would undertake and above all, if he always knew what was the most undertake. Since he was Convinced that he was right in thinking this way, he had a proclamation made in his kingdom. He would give a great reward to anyone who would teach him what the right time was for every action, who the most necessary people were, and how he might know the most important thing to do. Many learned people came to the court but they all gave different answers. In reply to the first question, some said that to know the right time for every action, one must draw up in advance a table of days, months and years, and must live strictly according to it. Others declared that it was impossible to decide beforehand the right time for every action; but that, not letting oneself be absorbed in idle pastimes, one should always attend to all that was going on, and then do that was most essential. Yet others said that it was impossible for one man to decide correctly the right time for every action and that the king should, instead, have a council of wise people, who would help him to fix the proper time for everything.

- (A2) Give an account of the kings first question and the answers that people gave him. 2m
- (A3) Use the following words to make meaningful sentences: 2m

i. "I don't think it can be very difficult if God is on your side."
ii. "And if she can put some fight into him, she can put it into anybody."

Robert : I suppose you think raising a siege is as easy as chasing a cow out of a meadow. You think soldiering is anybody's job?

Joan: I don't think it can be very difficult if God is on your side.

Robert: (Grimly) Have you ever seen English soldiers fighting? Have you ever seen them plundering, burning, turning the countryside into a desert? Have you heard no tales of their prince who is the devil himself, or of the English king's father?

Joan : You do not understand, squire. Our soldiers are always beaten because they are fighting only to save their skins and the shortest way to save your skin is to run away. But I will teach them all to fight for France. Then, they will drive the soldiers before them like sheep. You and Polly will live to see the day when there will not be a single English soldier on the soil of France.

Robert: (To Poulengey) This may all be nonsense, Polly. But the troops might just be inspired by it though nothing that we say seems to put any fire into them. Even the Dauphin might believe it. And if she can put some fight into him, she can put it into anybody.

Robert: (Turning to Joan) Now you, listen to me and don't cut in before I have time to think. Your orders are that you are to go to Chinon under the escort of this gentleman and three of his friends.

Joan: (Radiant, clasping her hands) Oh, thank you. squire!

 - iii. The villagers came with sticks and weapons.
 - iv. The villagers clicked their fingers.
- I remember the night my mother was stung by a scorpion. Ten hours of steady rain had driven him
to crawl beneath a sack of rice.
- Parting with his poison - flash
of diabolic tail in the dark room —
he risked the rain again.
The peasants came like swarms of flies
and buzzed the name of God a hundred times
to paralyse the Evil One.
- With candles and with lanterns throwing giant scorpion shadows
on the mud-baked walls
they searched for him: he was not found.
They clicked their tongues.
With every movement that the scorpion made his poison
moved in Mother's blood, they said.

(B) Read the following poem and write an appreciation of it with the help of the given points in a paragraph format.

5M

If you want a thing bad enough
to go out and fight for it,
work day and night for it,
give up your time and your peace and your sleep for it.

If all that you dream
and scheme is about it and life
seems useless and worthless without it
If you gladly sweat for, fret for and plan for it and lose all your terror of the opposition for it.

If you simply go after that thing that you want with all of your capacity, strength and sagacity, faith, hope and confidence and stem for tenacity

If neither cold poverty, famish or gout or sickness or pain
of body and brain
can keep you away from the thing that you want,

If dogged and grim you be size and beget it,
with the help of GOD you'll get it!

— Berlon Braley

- iv. The city of Troy had fallen by noon.

Long ago, the mighty cities of Troy and Athens went to war. No one could remember exactly how or why the war had started, but after ten years of fighting, neither side wanted to back down. The vast armies of Athens had sprawled out their campsites at the foot of Troy's walls, laying siege to the poor inhabitants. Everyone was affected by this decade-long war that showed no sign of ever ending. Then one day, the men and women of Troy woke up to a pleasant surprise. They looked out their windows, expecting to see the tents and soldiers of their enemy, but instead saw nothing. The lands surrounding Troy were, for the first time in years, completely empty. At first, the Trojans were confused, but their confusion quickly turned to celebration. The war was over! The Athenians must have given up. As King Priam of Troy celebrated with the rest of the royal family, Trojan guards rolled in a massive wooden horse that they had found sitting outside the city gates. It must be a peace offering, the Trojans decided happily. "The Athenians have left behind a gift to apologies for the trouble they have caused us." The Trojans, however, were very, very wrong. As they celebrated their presumed victory, Athenian soldiers hid inside the wooden horse, waiting to attack. At dawn, while the city of Troy slept, the wooden horse began to creak. Some of the wooden boards slipped aside and Athenian soldiers poured out. By noon, the city of Troy had fallen and the ten-year war was over.
